- Terms that are boldface in the text are defined in the Glossary of Literary Terms at the end of the book.
- The dates provided for stories indicated their earliest publication; dates for poems give the first publication in a book; dates for plays are for their initial performance. For some poems, when publication was delayed, the probable date of composition is given as well, in Italics.
- A rule (—) indicates a space break (in a story) or a stanza break (in a poem) that falls at the bottom or top of a page and otherwise might be undetectable.
- For untitled poems, the first line is often used as a convenient form of reference, though it should not be thought of as a title and thus does not follow the capitalization rules for titles.
